

Dear Senior Fellows and Friends,

You are cordially invited to the Club Room, Loew's L'Enfant Plaza Hotel restaurant, for dinner and conversation with Rosslyn S. Kleeman on Wednesday, February 23rd.

Roz is currently Distinguished Executive in Residence, Department of Public Administration, The George Washington University. She has been very active in workforce development for many years, not only in her jobs (at the White House Office of Presidential Personnel, GAO, OMB, and HEW), but as a member and officer of numerous professional associations.

The 2001-2002 ED Fellows were introduced to Roz by Jon Seymour at the Council for Excellence in Government. What I've noticed about Roz since then is that anyone who goes and talks to her about their career direction comes back renewed. Let's get together and find out why that is, and hear about Roz's current involvements, over an invigorating meal with colleagues. If you are intrigued or troubled by current issues in public administration, come put them on the table for group consideration—you may find kindred spirits with whom you can discuss good government further.

For those of you who haven't been to the hotel, it is a pleasant venue atop the L'Enfant Plaza Metro station. Those who RSVP "yes" will get detailed directions and parking info along with the menu options in the next few days (Roz's bio will be sent to you immediately). RSVPs and payment must be received by noon Monday, February 21st. As in the past, if you don't "do" PayPal, you may contact me to make other arrangements. Also, please e-mail me if you would like to have an invitation sent to a friend or significant other.

Warm Regards,
Kitty Wooley
